“Rolling 1,000 km for charity”

On the 15th of October Kalle Kristensen and his team sets off on their 1,000 km roller-skiing-trip from Chiang Rai to Pattaya. They are planning to roll an average of 60 km per day and reach their final destination in Pattaya by the 4th of November.

Why go 1,000 km for Charity?

Kalle is a 67 year old Norwegian free spirit who has been roller-skiing in Thailand for 8 years. The idea of skiing from Chiang Rai to Pattaya has been in his mind for 4 years since he moved from Pattaya to Chiang Rai. Now he is set on roller-skiing in order to give back to the Thai community! The initial idea was to support a local school in the small village of May Siwalai in Chiang Rai, which needs major upgrades. Unfortunately, for the second year in a row, parts of Thailand have been devastated by flooding, which almost prevented the tour from happening. However, Kalle did not allow the situation of the flooding to stop him from carrying through with his goal. More so, his determination to give back to the Thai Community became even stronger. So now, this year's tour will focus mainly on providing help and donations for those affected by the floods, while also retaining the commitment to the school in May Siwalai.

THAILAND TOUR DE SKI 2012 - ROLLING 1,000 km FOR CHARITY

*“ I have lived 11 years in Thailand and I love the country and the people very much. Everywhere I am doing roller skiing I am getting a lot of attention. For most of the Thais this is something new and exciting and I believe that by doing this tour we will draw a lot of attention. I want to use this chance to do something to help my Thai friends. I found inspiration in the project Bearth-day <http://bearth-day.org/> which focuses on “giving back” instead of “taking”. This fascinating little idea of changing how we celebrate our birthdays is something I believe could make a lot of change in this world, and I will do my best to promote this simple but genius idea. Lets come together and do more for others!” Kalle
